Shutterstock If you are planning to get a sophisticated Valentine's Day gift for your boyfriend, you can save your cash. New research suggests that something a little, well, easier to do just fine. The best current men want on February 14th is- you guessed sex, according to a recent survey by ScienceOfRelationships.com. MORE: 10 Reasons Why It's Best to Be Lonely on Valentine's Day Researchers surveyed more than 1,000 adults and found that overall women love Valentine's Day more than men. No big surprise there. But 20 percent of men say they love Valentine's Day, too (oh!), and 59 percent of these guys say they expect to have even better than normal sex on V-Day (hey, that's kind of why we love it too). When ScienceOfRelationships.com asked men what they really wanted for Valentine's Day, sex topped the charts with 46 percent of men putting it on their wish lists. He was not very closely followed by a thoughtful map (7 percent). MORE: 7 Ways to Make Extra Romantic Sex So you have. It may not be scientific, romantic, or even remotely surprising, but at least you know you can skip the line at the mall and meet its sweet card and great sex. And since Valentine's Day sex was probably on your to-do list anyway, it's pretty much a win-win. But if you're still set to get something it can deploy, check out our Valentine's Day gift guide for some great ideas.
